DESCRIPTION ET EQUIPEMENTS

Matching numbers Beautiful color combination Rare left-hand drive example The DB2/4 was one of the fastest production cars of its time, how did they manage to produce such a fast yet very comfortable and luxurious car with such a modest engine capacity? The Bentley Drivers' Club even called it "the fastest shooting brake in the world." The greatest modifications of the new 2+2 seating arrangement with the 2nd row of seats allowed for a comfortable family ride. The manufacturing process involved the collaboration of multiple locations, with chassis and engine production concentrated in Yorkshire, while body production took place at Mulliners in Birmingham. Our stunning 1955 Aston Martin DB 2/4 is one of only 102 drophead coupes ever built. As if that wasn't rare (...)
