DESCRIPTION ET EQUIPEMENTS

The Lamborghini Islero was presented for the first time in 1968 at the Geneva Motor Show. It replaced the 400GT and bore fresh, deliberately discrete and stylish coachwork imagined by Carrozzeria Marazzi. As Ferruccio Lamborghini liked to say, a car for the tycoon, not for the playboy. One famously starred in the Roger Moore film, "The man who haunted himself". The new Islero was a gentleman's GT that perfectly suited il Cavaliere's tastes. After 125 Isleros were produced, an upgraded S version was launched in 1969. Outwardly similar, it had a redesigned interior, further developed suspension and a high-compression engine with Miura S calms now producing 350 HP. One hundred Islero S were sold in total, which brings the total production run of the Lamborghini Islero to 225 (...)
